8 STRIKERS SHOT DOWN

All Badly Injured, and Three in Hospital Expected to Die

VOLLEY FIRED INTO PARADE

Miners Marching, With Band at Their Head, to Meet Union Officials at Station—Pistol Shot Is the Signal.

Indiana, Pa., June 9.—The new mining town of Ernest, on the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad, five miles from here, was the scene early yesterday of a conflict between a detail of state constabulary and striking coal miners, in which eight strikers were seriously wounded, three of them fatally.

Shortly after daylight a body of strikers, headed by a brass band, marched from Anita mines in Jefferson county to receive one of the union officials expected from Punxsutawney. On the way to the station the marchers encountered a detail of twelve members of the state constabulary. As they passed a member of the band fired his revolver at the troop.

No one was struck, but the constabulary immediately retaliated with a volley from their carbines.

When the smoke cleared eight strikers were lying on the ground and the others had fled precipitately down the hill.

After the excitement had subsided the wounded miners were removed to Adrian hospital.

As the result of the shooting a mass meeting arranged for the afternoon was cancelled. Sheriff Wetzel has ordered the arrest of leaders of the parade.

All is now quiet and no more trouble is apprehended.

The mines at Ernest are owned by the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal & Iron company. On April 1 a strike was inaugurated and the men have been out ever since. Three weeks ago the plant was started non-union, and a detail of the state constabulary has since been guarding the property of the company.

About one-half of the regular force of 400 men are at work in the mine.

NEW FACTS ABOUT BEEF

President Will Launch Them At Congress

IF THIS BE NECESSARY

Secret Service Men Busy—Investigator Reynolds, Before House Committee, Stands by Statements in Report—Wadsworth Resents.

Washington, June 9.—President Roosevelt is preparing to launch at Congress another section of the meat report, if necessary, to secure adequate legislation. Government agents, among them secret service men, are busy investigating packing house conditions in Chicago and elsewhere, and the administration is said to be fortifying itself with a mass of facts to be made public if necessary.

Commissioner Neill had a long conference with the President yesterday. On leaving the White House he said in most positive terms he was prepared to stand by every assertion made in his report. He said that while a further report was in preparation he did not know when it would be completed.

The project of a congressional committee visiting Chicago has been practically abandoned. James B. Reynolds, who investigated Chicago conditions with Dr. Neill, testified before the House committee on agriculture. Mr. Reynolds in effect stood by his report. Further efforts were made by some of the committee to discredit statements of the report.

Mr. Reynolds said that his criticisms applied generally to the meat products rather than the fresh meats, but that the conditions where fresh meats were handled were unsatisfactory.

In committee yesterday Chairman Wadsworth, who has been widely criticized as defending the packers, defended himself in a statement. He said he was friendly to all industries, and that the Neill-Reynolds report had cost the packing and stock interests millions, and cut off 35 to 40 per cent of the foreign demand. Statements had been made by Dr. Neill as to filthy conditions which he did not believe, and he was merely seeking to know on what these assertions were based.

He was proceeding to discuss the testimony when Representative Lamb inquired if he was making a summary of the evidence for the committee.

Representative Wadsworth, who represents the Chicago packing house district in Congress, defended conditions in packing and in the packing houses, and said the charges of moral degradation against the residents of that packing region were slanderous.

PURE FOOD BILL.

Mann of Illinois Says Law Is to Pass Congress.

Washington, D. C. June 9.—In reply to an inquiry from Representative Hinshaw of Nebraska, Representative Mann of Illinois has made an emphatic statement to the House that so far as he knew it was the intention of the House to consider and pass a pure food bill, and he had no doubt it would become a law at this session.

Compromise on Statehood.

Washington, June 9.—A basis of compromise, if not the exact form, which is said to be acceptable to a majority of the Senate for the settlement of differences on the statehood question, has been submitted by Senator Carter. It provides for a vote at the next regular territorial elections of Arizona and New Mexico.

ANOTHER R. R. INVESTIGATION.

Directors of the West Jersey and Seashore Appoint a Committee.

Philadelphia, June 9.—A special meeting of the directors of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad Company was held here yesterday.

It was stated after the meeting that a committee had been appointed to make an investigation of the affairs of the corporation.

LARD

Nine Cents a Pound

For Saturday only we shall cut the price of our Lard at the low rate of nine cents per pound. This is not an inferior quality of Lard, but is up to our regular high standard. It is the Green Mountain Brand, and to say that is sufficient guarantee for its purity and wholesomeness. Nine cents is really an extremely low price for so fine an article.

PROCRUSTINATION

The Habit of Delay—Some of Its Consequences—Causes of This Bad Habit.

"Defer not till tomorrow to be wise. Tomorrow's sun to thee may never rise."

Truly it has been said that procrastination is the thief of time. The habit of delay is one of the most vicious faults to which mankind is subject. In almost every instance delays are entirely unnecessary and are often due to carelessness, but more often due to thoughtlessness. Strange as it may seem, this danger from delay is encountered more often as a result of carelessness or thoughtlessness about one's health or the health of some one dependent upon us. How often pneumonia could be prevented if the victim had acted sooner.

Now is the time to catch on to that little cold. Now is the time to take steps to check it, and the best way to arrest its progress is to take Mager's (Malt) Emulsion. This is the wonderful combination of Cod Liver Oil, syrup, diastase, non-alcoholic Malt and Hypophosphites. It primes the system so that it will throw off that "little cold" and prevent such serious complications as Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Grip, etc. Mager's (Malt) Emulsion is non-narcotic and non-alcoholic. Nothing enters into its composition that is not of value to the system. It produces fat, keeps you warm and makes you strong. Mager's (Malt) Emulsion is a food, a medicine and a tonic combined. Beware of the wine preparations of cod liver oil. They contain no oil, so cannot possibly produce the benefits sought. Besides, the alcohol will cause a reaction after you cease taking it, that will leave you in a worse condition than before.

Mager's (Malt) Emulsion will surely help you. Start taking it today and a month later compare yourself with your condition of today. Don't delay, tomorrow never comes. Remember, no wine, no whiskey, just food. Get a bottle today of E. A. Drown, Druggist, 48 North Main street, Barre, Vt.

ACCIDENT WAS FATAL.

Almon S. Atkins of Hardwick Died This Week.

Hardwick, June 9.—Almon S. Atkins died at his home on Cherry street Monday evening. Mr. Atkins met with an accident in February which proved fatal. A board fell where he was working, hitting him on the head. At first no ill effects were noticed but he gradually grew worse and it was found upon examination that his skull was fractured. He underwent an operation May 20th and a piece of the bone was removed. After the operation he seemed to rest easier, until Sunday night when he lapsed into a state of coma and remained so until Monday evening when he passed quietly away.

Almon S. Atkins was the son of James Willard, and Elvira Atkins, and was born in Duxbury, Vt., Jan. 29, 1853. In the year 1878 he was married to Maria O., daughter of Geo. C. and Caroline Trov.

Six years ago he came to Hardwick to reside. The greatest part of the time he has worked boxing stone at the different sheds. Mr. Atkins was a faithful and diligent workman, a good man and loyal citizen.

He is survived by a widow and three sons, Owen H. and Harold L. of Hardwick, and Willard G. of Pike, N. H., a father, mother and two sisters.

The funeral was held at the Baptist church at two o'clock Thursday. Rev. H. C. Howard of Jeffersonville, Vt., officiated, assisted by Rev. G. L. Lovell. The Lopers and Drillers' union and N. E. O. P. of which orders the deceased was a member, attended with large delegations. The remains were taken to Jeffersonville yesterday morning and will be buried in the family lot at that place. Mr. Atkins resided in that village for several years.

QUARRYING IN ITALY

Irving L. Potter Writes Most Interestingly

OF CONDITIONS HE FOUND

He Tells of the Small Pay Received and of the Poor Conditions Under Which the Men Labor.

Irving L. Potter, formerly a teacher in Goddard seminary, who is now traveling in Europe, writes most interestingly of a visit to an Italian quarry as follows:

Brenno, Uscia.

Brenno Uscia is a little town of five hundred inhabitants situated at the foot of Mount Uscia and about an hour and a half's ride from Milan, the capital of Lombardy. Here is located the principal building stone quarry of Italy, which has been worked since 1814. The entrance to this underground quarry leads down a steep inclined plane, over which a small track is laid. Several small oil lamps of curious design hang near the entrance; they are heart shaped, with a flame of one candlepower at the apex, and a slender perpendicular handle at the opposite end.

At six o'clock in the morning every man takes one of these lamps and descends the steep, narrow path into the quarry, six hundred feet below, which covers an area of many square feet; the pool portion, at the left, is filled by a pool of water 210 feet long, 100 feet broad and 10 feet deep. Here, surrounded by darkness and walls rocking with moisture, twenty men work from six in the morning until seven at night, cutting the stone from the solid rock by the aid of long, slender points. The stone is much softer than the Barre granite, yet it takes three days to quarry a block 3 feet long and 2½ wide. While the average quarryman of Barre receives $3.00 for a day of eight hours, and has every modern convenience to work with, this brother laborer receives thirty to thirty cents per day and can afford only the simplest of tools.

The stonemason where the stock is cut and carved is at the entrance of the quarry. It reminded me of our country horse sheds; only one side closed and being protected from the sun and rain by a rude tin roof. Sixty to sixty-five cutters and carvers are employed here, being mostly boys from twelve to eighteen years who serve three to four years to learn the trade. The first year they receive no salary, but are often given a "tip" of two dollars. The second year, the work being more difficult, the boys are paid five to six cents a day and the last year from ten to fifty cents. Opposite the shed is a school where they are taught monumental and architectural drawing (in the latter only the decorative art), by one of the best masters of Italy. This school has won five medals; one being given them at Paris at the time of the exposition. The medals and many of the drawings were shown to me by the assistant superintendent of the monumental and architectural decoration were taken for the most part from the east, while some were copies of plaster given in the magazines. The mechanical and perspective drawings were also neatly and accurately done.

Many beautiful buildings have been made of the stone from this quarry, among which are the gallery of Victor Emmanuel at Milan, and the station at Lucerne, Switzerland.

From Brenno Uscia can be seen, at the foot of the rugged mountain of Elia, the small village of Viggin, the home of Elia Corti, who was one of Barre's finest workmen, the carver of Burns' monument which stands in front of Spaulding high school. In the same village lived John Corti and his brother, who did most of the work on the monument which was erected in Hope cemetery in honor of Elia Corti. These two monuments are Barre's nearest approach to art and have been seen and admired by hundreds of people. All three of these men served their time at this little shed, as did many of our ablest workmen. At the present time there are two hundred Italians in Barre from Brenno Uscia, many being among our most industrious and promising citizens, who have saved enough to own their homes, a good business and are educating their children either in America or Europe. These same people have bought property in Italy, where they support aged parents and send the remaining money to them, usually monthly.

The boys now learning their trade, with few exceptions, expect to come to Barre. Some have remarkable talent and if they prove as worthy as their townsmen, Barre may yet become the artistic center of Vermont. This will not seem far fetched to those who have visited Italy and who have seen the work of Michael Angelo, the painter, sculptor and architect, of whom Sir Joshua Reynolds says that "to kiss the hem of his garment, would be glory and distinction enough for an ambitious man," or to have seen even the beautiful monuments at the Campo Santo in Milan, done by some of the artists of the present age, would assume the practical American that this romantic, impulsive nation has the talent and ability which we need and in years to come will make it unnecessary for us to travel across the sea to find art. It will then be necessary only for the students who wish to study the early schools, their methods and their growth.

Let us welcome these ambitious and talented young men who are to come, educate them and encourage them with the desire to make our city a beautiful as well as prosperous one.

GIANTS ARE STILL THIRD

Pittsburg Didn't Get Another Chance at Boston Yesterday — Collins' Men Dropped Another Game.

The New York Giants got back at the Chicago Aspirants yesterday, winning 7 to 3 after their disastrous defeat of the day before. The standing of the three leaders was not changed, however, although New York took a step up and is now within eleven points of Pittsburg, holder of second place. The latter did not get a chance at the Boston Nationals yesterday.

The Highlanders in the American league continue to play a strong game and yesterday they worsted the Chicago crowd easily, outbating and outfielding them. The poor Bostonians dropped another game to Cleveland, in a 7-inning game. Cleveland tumbled before Washington, but still maintains second place by a narrow margin.

SUMMER ATHLETICS

SHIFTS IN HARVARD VARSITY.

Tappan Transferred to Bow Seat to Replace Flint—No. 3 at Present in Doubt.

Cambridge, Mass., June 9.—The disqualification of Phil Flint has considerably upset the Harvard Varsity eight and the men who have been rowing together practically all spring are likely to be shifted considerably before the right combination is found. Flint was a very finished oar and proved just the man for the bow seat, which he held until after the Cornell race. Since last week his place has been held by Corlett from the second crew.

This combination, however, has not been to the satisfaction of Coach Wray and Captain Filley and another shift has been made, this time Tappan being moved from No. 3 to the bow seat. This move is not necessarily permanent, but it seems likely that Tappan will be the final choice for the race with Yale. Taking Tappan from his old seat at No. 3 will necessitate taking a man from one of the four now rowing. Three men have been given a trial—Emmons, Richards and Morgan, all of whom have been in the first four. The first named held down a seat in the Varsity earlier in the spring, but since has been rowing in the second eight and then in the fours. He is a starboard, while Richards and Morgan are both port oars. These three will be given another trial this afternoon and on their showing it is likely a final choice will be made.

A change has been made recently in the plans for daily practice on the Charles. In the past the crew has been coming down from the boathouse in the shell, but this has been unsatisfactory, since the sharp turns have thrown the boat off her keel and have given the oarsmen a tendency to row out of the shell. Now Captain Filley has the men taken down to the Longwood Bridge in the launch, a boat having been moored there. The men take their practice in straight stretches up and down the basin, returning to the boathouse in the launch.

AUTO COMPETITION

WON BY AN AUSTRIAN

Who Drove a 90-Horse Power Mercedes Car—One of Directors of Vienna Race Ran Down a Deaf Man.

Vienna, June 8.—The first driver in the Hubert Von Herkomer auto competition from Frankfurt-on-the-Main to Vienna, entered the city at 10:30 yesterday. He was an Austrian brewer, named Dreiers, and he drove a 90-horse power Mercedes car. He was followed by an Englishman, Dainier. Prince Henry of Prussia came in one hour later. One hundred and fifty cars competed. Perry Pierce of Buffalo, the only American, arrived at 12:13. One accident was reported yesterday to mar the success of the meet. One of the directors, Herr Krone, ran down a deaf man and killed him.
